

LAUNCH OF NEW PRIME OF PRIME BROKERAGE, STATER GLOBAL MARKETS

LONDON – 3 October 2016 - Ramy Soliman has been appointed CEO of new London-based Prime of Prime Brokerage, Stater Global Markets. Ramy is a well-known industry figure, with over a decade of experience in senior sales roles at Citi, IG and Integral.

Backed by Stater Holdings in New Zealand, Stater Global Markets offers clients institutional access to the FX market. The FCA-regulated brokerage launches with direct access to top tier bank and non-bank liquidity, market leading technology solutions and world-class infrastructure.

Ramy Soliman explains, “The backers saw an opportunity to leverage my experience from Citi, IG and Integral to create a new, comprehensive Prime of Prime offering. They acquired an FCA regulated brokerage with a strong team and institutional client base and, over the last few months, I have been evolving the business and leveraging my contacts to develop Stater Global Markets, which is now open for business.

“Having previously worked for the world's largest FX investment bank, the world's largest retail broker and a Silicon Valley-based fin-tech provider, I have an in-depth insight into the industry from a range of perspectives and a very clear understanding of how best to serve clients in the Prime of Prime segment. I have used this experience to shape Stater Global Markets and to select who I believe are the very best partners in the industry – from Top Tier liquidity providers through to bridge providers, white label platforms and connectivity solutions.

“Stater Global Markets concentrates on offering the very best in terms of credit intermediation, customisable liquidity solutions and institutional grade technology – and clients can come to us for all or any part of our offering.”

In addition to full credit intermediation and direct access to top tier bank and non-bank liquidity, Stater Global Markets offers a choice of front-end platforms, connectivity and hosting services as well as complementary services such as research and consultancy.
